*Legalized copies and translations

Legalized copies of official documents

Applicants must submit legalized copies of the relevant documents required for their application to matriculate at the University of Zurich (secondary school-leaving certificate, university degrees, proof of study, transcript of records, etc.).

A copy has been legalized if one of the following offices has confirmed the copy's conformity to the original document with stamp and signature:

Legalization in Switzerland

Legalizing documents in Switzerland is performed by:

- the diplomatic or consular representation of the applicant's home country in Switzerland;
- a notary public; or
- an office authorized to legalize documents (e.g. county or municipal office).

Legalization outside of Switzerland

Legalizing documents outside of Switzerland is performed by:

- the diplomatic or consular representation of the Swiss Confederation in the applicant's home country;
- the diplomatic or consular representation of the applicant's home country in a third country; or
- an office in the applicant's home country authorized to legalize documents with the Apostille of the Hague Convention.

Text and stamp of the legalization must be in German, English or French.

Legalized translations

If the original documents are in a language other than German, English or French, legalized translations in German, English or French must be submitted along with a certified copy of the original documents. Translations must uphold the following formal requirements:

- The translation must be based on a certified copy of the document in question (or the original document). Both the translation and the certified copy of the original document are to be submitted, and the document providing the basis for the translation must be named explicitly.
- The University of Zurich requires a literal translation of: names of diplomas, university degrees and titles, names of institutes of higher learning and universities, other schools. The original name or title must be placed in brackets.
- Both translation and stamp must be in German, English or French.

Translations in Switzerland

The University of Zurich recognizes translations performed by the following:

- ASTTI members (Swiss association for translation, terminology and interpretation), see www.astti.ch
- translation companies employing certified translators, e.g. www.allingua.ch or www.sprachwelten.ch (list not complete)

Translations outside of Switzerland

The University of Zurich recognizes translations performed by certified translators outside of Switzerland if the translations are legalized by one of the following authorities:

- the diplomatic or consular representation of the applicant's home country;
- the diplomatic or consular representation of the Swiss Confederacy in the applicant's home country; or
- an office in the applicant's home country authorized to legalize documents with the Apostille of the Hague Convention.

Please note: The University of Zurich reserves the right to verify the authenticity of all documents at the place of their issue. The university also reserves the right to reject faulty translations or to verify a translation's accuracy through the University of Zurich translation service. In questionable cases, the applicant may be called upon to assume costs for having the accuracy of the translation verified.
