#KickAss Brand & Digital Marketing Intern

Do you want to enhance your creative skills and support compelling brands in the digital marketing space? Are you a super motivated, detail-oriented, people person and a problem solver? If you answered ‘yes’ to the above, please read on.

This is for you if

- You are passionate about branding, design and digital marketing
- You thrive when you work with others and feel energised whenever engaging with clients
- You are a native level English speaker or have almost-native English skills (German is a plus)
- You are imaginative and a doer at the same time – bringing ideas to life gets you going
- You are curious about new technology and creative concepts and believe in continuous learning
- Working in a young, fast-paced and fun environment is what gets you out of bed

What you will be doing

We are looking for an all-rounder who can support our team in the following key tasks:

- Creating content (ideation, brainstorming, concepts, copywriting)
- Operational activities on digital marketing platforms
- Coordinating client requests and providing support in day-to-day client communication
- Supporting our team in acquiring new clients and in diverse tasks that will help us grow
- Bringing new and fresh ideas to the table (be it a business related or where the next pop-up bar opening is happening)

How to apply

We don’t believe in cover letters. We hate reading them as much as you hate writing them. So instead of a cover letter, we want to hear from the real you. What motivates you? Send us a short video of yourself along with your CV. It can be as simple as taking out your phone, or hitting record on your laptop. We just want to know, what you’re passionate about. Be yourself. Do your thing. While we strongly encourage you to send a short video along with your CV, we do also accept the good old-fashioned cover letter.

Please send your complete application and/or questions to: hello@level27.ch
