

Exemplary Curriculum vitae

The CV has to be drafted in the language of the dissertation and inserted as the last page. It has to be brief and may cover a maximum of one page. The main purpose of the CV is that the candidate can be clearly identified. Therefore, personal details such as first name, last name and date of birth have to be included in every case. Please leave out any contact details, picture and signature. As a rule, the CV in the dissertation is divided into personal details, education and, if you wish, professional experience. Please leave out further details such as conferences, publications, etc. The CV may be drafted in table form (see example below) or as a text.

Curriculum vitae

Personal details

First name Last name

Date of birth: DD MMMM YYYY

Education

September 19 – February 24<sup>1</sup>: Doctoral program<sup>2</sup> in Neuroeconomics
University of Zurich, Department of Economics

September 17 – July 19: Master of Science in Psychology
University of Zurich, Department of Psychology

September 14 – July 17: Bachelor of Science in Psychology
University of Zurich, Department of Psychology

Professional experience

from – to: XXX XXX XXX

---

<sup>1</sup> This time specification has to correspond to the degree conferral date.

<sup>2</sup> “Doctorate” or “PhD” has to be supplemented by “studies” or “program” because the title of Doctor may only be used after the publication of the dissertation and upon receipt of the final degree documents.

Sample: Bibliographic citation

The bibliographic citation is the exact declaration of how the dissertation or the single papers constituting the dissertation are to be cited. It is not the bibliography of the literature you used in your dissertation. Instead, it is about how third persons shall cite the papers constituting your dissertation. The bibliographic references of papers that have already been published are determined by the publisher. The bibliographic citation is usually provided on the title page of the relevant paper (see example 1). Also for papers that have been submitted, but not yet published, the current status at the time of the printing of the dissertation shall be stated (see example 2).

Example 1:

A version of this paper / This paper is published as Author 1, Author 2, Title of the paper, Name of the journal, Volume (Issue), Page–Page, Year.

Example 2:

A version of this paper / This paper has been submitted to the Name of the journal.

The candidate is responsible for observing copyrights with regard to the publication of all components of the dissertation, both in the context of the dissertation and in any other publications. Please contact the relevant journal in case of doubt.