

NAVIGATING AND CONTESTING BORDERS

Territorial and tangible borders are entangled with invisible borders, that are socially produced and constantly navigated, contested and re-invented consciously and unconsciously. Borders assume symbolic meanings, have discursive boundaries and their embodiments play a crucial role in power practices and dynamics.

By investigating the diverse perspectives on mobility, the workshop aims to shed light on how individuals and communities negotiate, navigate and are subject to borders, recognizing that these can carry different meanings and implications across diverse contexts and beyond the national understanding.

NAVIGATING AND CONTESTING BORDERS

Friday 17th May 2024
9am-4pm

Sign up here!

For further information contact michelle.vondach@uzh.ch, huajing.yang@uzh.ch

PROGRAM

Morning Session

09:00 – 09:15 Welcome and Introduction

09:15 – 10:00 Prof. Christine M. Jacobsen. University of Bergen (Online)
Navigating Temporal Borders: the Case of Undocumented Migrants in Marseille

10:00 – 10:45 Dr. Peter W. Walsh. Oxford University
The UK's "asylum ban"

10:45 – 11:15 Coffee Break

11:15 – 12:00 Dr. Kiri Santer. University of Bern
The Externalisation of Borders and Responsibility in the Central Mediterranean: Anthropological Perspectives on Accountability and Migration Control

12:00 – 12:45 Dr. Minna Piipponen. University of Eastern Finland
Changing Geopolitics and Borderscapes along Finland's Eastern Border

12:45 – 14:00 Lunch Break

Afternoon Session

14:00 – 16:00 Workshop

Participants have the possibility to present, discuss and revise their research with a 10-minute presentation. We encourage discussion around border-scapes from different disciplines and on their impact from a macro to a micro perspective.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Date

Friday 17th May 2024

Location

University of Zurich
Andreasstrasse 15
CH-8050 Zürich

Room AND-4-02

The workshop has been organised and curated by Michelle von Dach and Huajing Yang and is made possible through the ISEK - Social and Cultural Anthropology's Junior Researchers' Grant and is being carried out as part of the 'MARS: Non-Western Migration Regimes in a Global Perspective' project, funded by the European Commission's MSCA SE.