

Publishers and thesis publication

After your PhD thesis has been accepted, the specified number of deposit copies must be submitted within two years before the doctoral candidates are appointed to the position of doctor.

Deposit copies: If your PhD thesis is published using an open-access platform and is not published online, you must submit six deposit copies to the ZB Zurich. If your PhD thesis is published using an open-access platform you must also submit an additional deposit copy to the Faculty of Law. If you do not publish online, you must submit 30 deposit copies to the Faculty of Law. PhD candidates will receive further information after their thesis has been accepted by the faculty.

Publishers: Various publishers publish PhD theses to promote junior researchers. The following list provides a brief overview of some publishers (including open-access options). For a detailed overview and current information, please refer to the websites of the publishers.
